Adani Keen to Expand Aviation Services

Looks to diversify into aircraft maintenance, plane components, training & aircraft simulators

Anirban.chowdhury@timesgroup.com

Mumbai: The Adani Group which has eight airport projects in its kitty wants to diversify into aviation services including aircraft maintenance, plane components, training and aircraft simulators its flagship group, its flagship company Adani

Enterprises (AEL) said in its latest annual report. "As per estimates, the projected size of the Indian aircraft services market is $145 billion till 2037. The Company is working towards providing a one-stop solution for all aircraft related services across India and South Asia. The Company intends to address multiple opportunities like aircraft maintenance, overhaul/repair, component services, training, simulators, digital solutions and airport services across India and South Asia," it said in the annual report for FY21. Stressing on its focus in the airports business it said the next generation of its strategic business investments are centered on airport management, technology parks, roads, data centers and water infrastructure with shift towards the B2C segment. The conglomerate have been quietly foraying into allied aviation businesses already last year. Adani Defence signed an agreement with Airbus to collaborate on the aircraft maintenance, component repair, training and digital solutions. In March 2021, it conducted what it claimed to be the first live demonstration of a counter-drone system in the country at the Ahmedabad airport. It also threw contracts for the operations and maintenance of training simulators for Mi17 helicopters and MiG28 aircraft for the Indian Air Force on a BOM (Build Operate Maintain) basis for 20 years. Its airport projects entail developing aerotropolis, airport villages, hotels and malls, it said. Adani Enterprises as an incubator owns 100% of its airports holding company Adani Airport Holdings Ltd. The company has taken over privatised airports at Ahmedabad, Lucknow and Mangaluru and aims to take over 3 more at Thiruvananthapuram, Jaipur and Guwahati by next month, it said in the report. AEL owns 33.5% of the first three airports while AAHL owns the rest. It owns 100% of the remaining three. AAHL has also taken over 33.5% of Mumbai International Airport Ltd (MIAL) from shareholders Bidvest and Airports Company South Africa, according to the report. It aims to take over 60.5% additional shares through a conversion of majority shareholder GVK's debts into equity by the end of this month, said a person close to the development. MIAL in turn owns 74% of the Rs 16,000 mega airport project planned in New Mumbai.
